This camp will offer baseball players an opportunity to build and enhance their baseball skills and fundamentals on the field and develop character and leadership skills off the field. The camp will be led by former Chicago Cubs outfielder CJ Stewart and student-athletes from public high schools around Atlanta who participate in Stewart's L.E.A.D. Ambassadors program.

During the week, campers will receive small group instruction by skill level to reinforce and build upon existing baseball-specific skills. Our curriculum will focus on lots of reps for hitting and fielding, instructional competitive games, and critical thinking skills training. For our more advanced players, our curriculum shifts to focus on proper pitching mechanics as many of our players transition to "kid-pitch" in their leagues. During the week, our coaches will use baseball to teach leadership skills that will translate off the field. Our ultimate goal is to empower your players with skills and to build upon your child's passion and love of the game.
